GIANT IMPERATOR SAILS INTO PORT, HER HOLD AFLAME

Fire Sweeps World's Largest Steamship: An Officer Killed.

PASSENGERS ARE LANDED SAFELY

Blaze Discovered in Provision Hold Early This Morning: $150,000 Damage Done by Fire and Water; the Rich Furnishings are a Total Loss.

By United Press.
HOBOKEN, N. J., Aug. 28.—With great clouds of smoke rolling out of her portholes, the liner Imperator, the largest steamship afloat, was on fire this morning when she reached her dock. Second Officer Gehrrecht lost his life in an attempt to save the provision room, in which the blaze started, and Seaman Otto Stump was overcome by smoke and dragged half dead from the flames after his attempt to rescue his superior. All of the steering passengers were removed to shore safely at Hoboken.

For five hours, 15 streams of water were kept playing on the blaze. All of the Hoboken fire department, two New York troops and two Hamburg-American line fireboats fought the blaze.

Fire Chief Davis of Hoboken, estimated that the damage would amount to $150,000. This estimate was made sometime before the blaze was extinguished, and it is now believed that it will be much greater.

Water poured through all parts of the ship, soaking and ruining the magnificent parlors, stairways and promenades. The decorations were drenched.

Second Officer Gehrrecht lost his life in an attempt to reach the provision room, which is situated at the water line, near the stern. He had donned a helmet and was making his way through the great clouds of smoke, when the men descending air to him became excited and ran. When Hoboken firemen reached the officer he was dead.

The fire was discovered at 4 A. M., and was not extinguished until 9, two hours later. The inception of the blaze has not been determined, but a thorough investigation is now in progress. Officials believe that they will be able to determine the origin after questioning some of the men.

From the provision room, the fire spread rapidly to the cabins, eating its way along the hallways and thence to the center of the ship.

The Imperator had 2,199 passengers aboard when she docked. Of this number, the first and second cabin passengers immediately disembarked, but the steerage passengers were all aboard when the fire was discovered.

Commander Thuesen, in command, tried to fight the fire with his crew of 1,180 men, but was unsuccessful and after 45 minutes sent in a general alarm to the Hoboken fire department.

The fire was hard to fight because of the position of the provision room. It was five decks below the first deck and the smoke was so dense that the men took their lives in their hands in an attempt to reach the seat of the blaze.

In the main the blaze was confined to the room in which it started. It threatened to spread to the second class cabins and did do slight damage there, but was brought under control before the forward part of the ship was in danger. The second class dining room was drenched with water.

CHARLTON IN ITALY

American Expects Trial for Murder of Wife in Rome.

By United Press.
NAPLES, Italy, Aug. 28.—Italian officers took Porter Charlton from the steamer Italia here this afternoon to a train and thence to take him to Rome, where he will stand trial for the murder of his wife.

Doctor Cantelli, an alienist employed by Charlton's family, met the party as they left the vessel and accompanied Charlton to Rome. The prisoner was closely guarded by the police, and reporters were unable to approach him for an interview.

"The charges Charlton will make when placed on the stand is rival those of Evelyn Nesbit," declared former Deputy Camera, chief counsel for Charlton.

WEST PENN TRACTION COMPANY SHOWS INCREASE IN BUSINESS

Railways and Light Systems Gain in Revenue: Bond Interest to $6 Paid.

A summary of the light and power business of the West Penn Traction & Water Power Company, for the year ending August 1, shows that 3,625 consumers were added. The net gain in lamps of 60-watt equivalent amounted to 29,367, and the connected horsepower (in motors) aggregated 16,672. The estimated gain in annual revenue from business connected in the 12 months was $322,655.

A statement covering the first six months of 1913 gives the receipts for all the electric companies as $741,934, an increase of $120,713, or almost 20 per cent. The actual amount of new business secured for the same period indicated an increase in gross business of $284,293, based upon the amount of current consumers expected to use during the year. The amount of business actually added to the lines for the first six months showed an increase of $20,452 in the business connected for the corresponding period in 1912. The gain over last year, therefore, was $124,732, or 264 per cent.

The West Penn street railway lines showed a gross gain of $170,551, or slightly over 10 per cent for the first six months of 1913, while net receipts from operations increased $93,185, or 15 per cent. The actual gross gain for the light and power companies and the street railway lines for the six months was $291,624.

HOW TO SCARE BURGLARS

Kittanning Girl Has the Combination: Uses Empty Gun.

By United Press.
KITTANNING, Aug. 27.—The way to frighten off a burglar, or burglars, is not to shoot at them. No, the proper way is to line them up with hands pointed toward the sturdy front and get nervous. Then they think you might shoot accidentally—and hit them.

Believe Miss Estella Smith, of this place. She knows. Miss Smith has been called upon times innumerable this week to show a big revolver with which she frightened away two bold burglars early last Saturday morning.

The revolver was empty when she scared them, but it made little difference to the burglars and it is probable they would have done the same thing—made a sudden dive over a fence and away—had they known it wasn't loaded.

DANIELS USED COAL TRUCK

Secretary of the Navy Had a Lively Time.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—There was some mistake in placing an order for an auto to take Secretary Daniels of the Navy Department to the Capitol. At 10 minutes before the time for the President's message no taxi appeared. It was too late to take a street car.

Two minutes later Secretary Daniels and Mr. Banks, seated by the driver in a big coal truck used to haul coals from the Navy department, were going down Pennsylvania avenue as fast as the law would allow. Mr. Daniels, seeing U. S. N. on the truck, halted the driver, jumped in and told him who he was and ordered him to beat it for the Capitol.

ACCIDENT ON MAIN STREET HILL

Uniontown Youth Falls to Turn Curve as Express-Train Clip and Machine Crashes Into a Telegraph Pole; Scatdole Girls in the Party.

Four persons narrowly escaped death this morning in an accident that demolished the big touring car of George F. Titlow, the Uniontown hotel man, and injured Miss Henrietta Tedlow of Scottsdale. The other occupants of the car, George Titlow, Jr., William Sturgeon of Uniontown, and a friend of Miss Tedlow, were hurled from the machine and suffered painful bruises.

The accident occurred on the first turn of the Main street hill, West Side. The car is said to have been traveling at high speed, and young Titlow, who was driving, was unable to make the turn. The car crashed into a telegraph pole and skidded over the curb, throwing the occupants out on the right bank and smashing the automobile.

The injuries sustained by Miss Tedlow consisted of numerous bruises and a gash above the right eye. At the South Side hospital, her injuries were dressed. It required two stitches to close the wound. She was taken to her home in Scottsdale, following the visit to the hospital.

According to the story told by persons who gathered soon after the accident, Titlow and Sturgeon were on their way to Uniontown, after having called upon the evening with which they met the two young women. The girls entered the car at the corner of Arch and Main streets, passing through the red light, and were caught while the throttle of the car was gaining headway at every woman as the dangerous turn was reached. The car skidded, crashing into the telegraph pole.

Three wheels of the car were smashed, the wind shield broken and the right side was caved in. After seeing the girls home, Titlow and Sturgeon returned to Uniontown. The auto at noon was still standing where the accident occurred.

Damage at Power House is Being Repaired Rapidly.

Rapid progress in repairing the generators at the West Penn power house, which were put out of commission Monday night by the bursting of a steam pipe is being made today, and officials at the plant believe that conditions will be brought up to normal by tomorrow morning. The addition of a 1,000-unit machine to the auxiliary forces yesterday afternoon enabled the company to resume scheduled flow on the main line from Greensburg to Uniontown, although branch lines are still running on half time.

Assistant Manager J. S. Jenks continued in charge of the work, and of repairs in Connellsville until all of the damage has been repaired. Another of the large generators will likely start running this afternoon.

Past and Present Mrs. Vanderbilt In Social War for Recognition

MRS. ELSIE FRENCH VANDERBILT
MRS. HOLLINS MCKIM VANDERBILT

NEWPORT, R. I., August 28.—Society had something to talk about when Alfred G. Vanderbilt and his wife, Mrs. Margaret Emerson Smith, Mrs. Elsie French Vanderbilt, who recently returned from abroad, came here for the tennis matches. It had to do with the social war which was declared between the past and present Mrs. Vanderbilt.

The society gossip says Mr. Vanderbilt and his present wife were not invited to the Fish ball, or to Mrs. Elsie's preceding affair. The committee follows:

Finance—Chairman Uts, Brant, Bishop, Haddock, Buttermore, Hitzel, Streets—Chairman Clark, Haddock, Herbert, Uts, Buttermore, Hay, Harman.

Police—Chairman Brant, McCormick, Haddock, Herbert, Clark, Uts, Public Safety—Chairman Haddock, Uts, Bishop, Gorman, McCormick.

Light—Chairman Gorman, Bishop, Friel, Hecker, Herbert.

Ordinance—Chairman Clark, Brant, Buttermore, Harman, Hitzel, Sillwag, Railroad—Chairman Herbert, Koser, Brant, Hay, Berg, Bishop.

Sewers—Chairman Brant, Herbert, Haddock, McCormick, Sillwag, Buildings and Public Grounds—Chairman Haddock, Sillwag, Brennan, Uts, Reynolds, Hitzel.

Water—Chairman Brant, McCormick, Reynolds, Brennan, Berg.

On motion of McCormick it was decided to do away with the regular meeting nights of council, and in future sessions will be held at the call of the chair.

Clark reported that the borough employes are engaged cleaning streets; that the Gibson avenue steps are in good condition and that the Gulltown avenue steps are in bad shape. The street committee was instructed to visit the Gulltown avenue steps and report at the next session of council.

The paving of Morrill avenue was brought up by Butler. He suggested that something would have to be done before fall. A motion that the street be paved resulted in a line up of five to five, which was decided by the vote of the chairman, who was in favor of the motion.

At the suggestion of Berg it was decided to instruct the water company to place two fire plugs in the East Park addition and two in Snyderstown. The water committee was directed to supervise the work.

An argument arose over the legality of H. C. Hays retaining his seat in council, some of the members asserting that he has moved from the First to the Fifth ward. Burns suggested that it be taken up at a future meeting.

Following the selection of Dr. Thomas H. Richard as a member of the Board of Health, succeeding Dr. Hugh Baker, deceased, the session was adjourned.

The Priel men gathered at city hall last night in response to a call of their leader, and discussed ways and means of dealing with the situation. Priel indicated that definite action to circumvent the seceders will be taken shortly.

In connection with adjournment Mr. Priel announced that no effort will be made to hold a meeting until the regular meeting night, which, he maintains, is still the first and third Thursdays of the month. Those present were Frank Priel, T. J. Brennan, John P. Koser, E. L. Hitzel and S. B. Becker.

Trespassers on Town.

On the charge of permitting his horse to trespass on the adjacent highway last evening, Jacob Caldwell of Moyer, was arraigned before Burgess J. L. Evans this morning. He was discharged.

BURNS NAMES NEW COMMITTEES AT A COUNCIL MEETING

Holds Afternoon Session to Avoid Conflict With Friel Forces

CONTINUE TO DODGE THE ISSUE

Abolish Regular Meetings and Will Gather at Call of Chair: Gorman a New Member; Friel Forces Gather but Abandon Their Nightly Vigil.

At a special meeting of Town Council yesterday afternoon the insurgents elected J. G. Gorman a member to succeed A. C. Gilmore of the Fourth ward, resigned, and perfected a new organization. New committees were appointed by President O. P. Burns.

The session was called for 3 o'clock, but was not convened until 3:45. All of the Burns men were in their chairs when the roll was read and a new name was called. It was that of Dr. C. W. Uts, who was selected by the insurgents to succeed C. M. Stoner, resigned. Others answering were: O. P. Burns, William McCormick, L. Sillwag, E. L. Berg, P. M. Buttermore, S. B. Brant, W. P. Clark, J. P. Reynolds, William Herbert, Charles W. Haddock and W. A. Bishop.

Because they believed the adjournment taken by the Priel men after they had left the council chamber on the night of August 7, when they accomplished the "overthrow" of Frank Friel, was unnecessary inasmuch as they had already adjourned, council directed Clerk A. O. Bixler to strike that feature of the session from the minutes. The motion was made by Bishop and seconded by Brant.

The question of paying Snyder street was the most important matter considered. On motion of Chairman Clark of the street committee, the paving ordinance was passed and bids will be asked.

In naming the new committees, President Burns instructed the members in their duties. He declared that former committees exceeded their authority and said that the duty of a committee ends when it introduces a matter placed in its hands and makes its report to council. S. E. Brant is the new chairman of the police committee. C. W. Haddock heads public safety, while Dr. C. W. Uts leads finance. The committees follow:

Finance—Chairman Uts, Brant, Bishop, Haddock, Buttermore, Hitzel, Streets—Chairman Clark, Haddock, Herbert, Uts, Buttermore, Hay, Harman.

Police—Chairman Brant, McCormick, Haddock, Herbert, Clark, Uts, Public Safety—Chairman Haddock, Uts, Bishop, Gorman, McCormick.

If you do not put some of the money you earn in a bank, somebody will put it there for you, but not in your name, but in his own. Don't you think it would be better and safer to bank some of your own money than have the "other fellow" bank it. SUCCESSFUL PICNIC

Ladies of Dawson No. 3, A. O. H., Held Outing at Shady Grove.

One of the most successful picnics conducted by the ladies of Division No. 3, Ancient Order of Hibernians, was held at Shady Grove yesterday. More than 75 persons were in attendance and all entered into the enjoyment of the day.

The feature of the outing was the dancing contests at the pavilion. Several prizes were offered for the most accomplished dancers and competition was keen.

Michael O'Connor and Miss Julia Lowmyer won the cake walk, and were awarded a cake made by Miss Daisy Ashe. The prize two-step was won by Harry Tippman and Miss Elizabeth McCloskey. The award was a two-pound box of candy.

Harry Lewis and Miss Mary Gillen were the best waiters and were given a pipe and a box of candy respectively.

Because everyone failed to guess rightly who was hidden in the guest cake, the cake was given to the orchestra. Mrs. R. S. Cooper, who made the cake, had hidden in its center a blade of grass.

Members of the dancing committee were Mrs. William Sullivan, Mrs. R. P. Cooper and Miss Daisy Ashe.

HONOR THEIR PASTOR

More Than 800 Persons Gather at Laurel Hill Church.

The fifteenth anniversary of Rev. J. B. Reed's entrance to the ministry, and the 25th anniversary of his pastorate at Laurel Hill, was celebrated yesterday in the presence of fully 800 persons. The affair was a gala day for the Laurel Hill neighborhood.

It was a holiday for all, that they might honor the man who has worked among them for so long a time. Most of them brought gifts along and had dinner at the church.

Talks were made by T. Harvey Smith, who gave a short history of the church; Rev. J. C. Meloy of West Newton; Rev. E. J. McKee of Pittsburgh; Dr. T. M. Thompson, pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church of Uniontown, and Rev. Dr. Engelson of Columbus, O. Music was furnished by the church choir and duets were rendered by Dr. and Mrs. Harry J. Holl of Dawson, and by J. S. McKee of Ada, O., and Mrs. Bell.

AUTOMATIC MINING

Steel Corporation Subsidiary to Test a New System.

The United States Coal & Coke Company, a subsidiary of the Steel Corporation, is arranging to install the O'Toole system of pneumatic transportation at its mines at Gary, W. Va. An electrically operated machine cuts the coal and drops it into a pipe and it is transported to the outside by a high velocity air current. The plant in question will have a capacity of about 450,000 tons a year.

This method of mining will make the operation of mining coal practically automatic. The problem of hand labor will be practically settled and strange to say the cost of the installation per ton capacity will be less than it is by the present method of mining. The cost of operation will be largely reduced, as the coal will all be mined and transported by mechanical power rather than hand power. A plant capable of mining a million tons a year can be installed for approximately two hundred thousand dollars.

ITALY'S GAIN IN WHITE OF LOSS.

Pittsburgh Gazette Times.

The census of the kingdom of Italy taken in 1911 and now tabulated shows a population of 34,671,377, an increase in 10 years of only about 1,750,000. Although Italy has the lowest birth rate of any of the six leading countries of Europe except France, this does not account for the small numerical growth. If Italy had fewer births than the large European countries except France, it would have a larger numerical increase and would have done so but for emigration. Italy is a large exporter of population. There are in the United States, for example, about 750,000 Italian men of voting age, and as a great number of women and children. There has been a large emigration of Italians from Italy into Germany in recent years owing to the demand for labor created by industrial development. Italians have come to the United States during a term of years at the rate of from 100,000 to 200,000 or more, but a considerable portion of these multitudes go back and forth each year; yet in the migratory movement there is a large annual loss to the fatherland, though the tables at hand show that less than 14 per cent of Italian voting age in this country are naturalized citizens. But, however, can spare population, for the latest figures show an average for the kingdom of 313 persons to the square mile, or two more than Germany, which we regard as a densely populated country, and 140 more than France. The average number of persons to the square mile in the United States is about 31. There is not so much room for growth of population in Italy that an increase of only 1,750,000 in 10 years need cause concern. Indeed, countries so densely populated have reason to consider with satisfaction the relief from congestion which emigration affords.

HOW ABOUT IT?

Unintentional New Standard. If the Public Service Commission is to investigate telephone companies a New Standard reader suggests it would be a good idea for them to look into a few things besides rates. For instance, some of the telephone companies have a rule that any old subscriber changing his residence or place of business to a place where the company does not already have a telephone is to be charged a higher rate than before. If the subscriber wishes to move he is told that he must pay a higher rate in the new location because he is equivalent to a new subscriber, while if he stays at his old location the old rate prevails. A subscriber, however, may not always wish to remain in the same location, and sometimes he cannot, and when such is the case it doesn't seem just that he should be compelled to pay more than the old subscriber who has no occasion to move. Even though the old subscriber might be willing to pay the cost of moving the telephone, the company doesn't look at it in that way and insists that he be regarded as a new subscriber. The company prefers to pay the expense of moving the telephone themselves and then compel the subscriber to pay the higher rate.

The first year in the new location the subscriber more than pays for the cost of moving the telephone in the increased rates, and he keeps on paying it year after year. It makes no difference how long he has had the telephone, he must either pay the increased rate or stay in the old location. This is one of the things the Public Service Commission could straighten out to advantage. It would appear that the point raised by the subscriber is pretty well taken.

SEPTEMBER MOON.

New Castle Herald. Widespread discussion has been indulged in concerning the propriety of "September moon." If it should be left to the vote of the boys and girls of this city the September moon that will usher in the first day of the coming month would be banished from the calendar. For that is the day when the faint tones of the school bells will call the children to the big buildings where they will gather for the ensuing nine months to practice mental marksmanship. Those who have passed beyond school days often forget the sinking sensation with which they used to hear the clarion bells that called them to the recitation room.

USELESS SLAUGHTER.

Pittsburgh Post.

An entire family wiped out in the collision of a railroad train with an automobile is a horror to which has been added in these columns concerning the duty of drivers to be cautious at grade crossings. The railroad is a fixed institution and the oncoming train has no power to turn out of its course. The driver knows where the railroad is and should be sure the track is clear before crossing. These danger spots are being gradually abolished at great expense to the railroads. Meanwhile the burden of caution is on those who can turn out, or who, having no schedule to make for the public convenience, can stop long enough to make sure they are safe. Let us get rid of the crossings at grade, but pending that desirable end, let us take care to not be victims at such places.

ADVICE TO LOVERS.

Lafayette Bulletin.

When Philip Cusick wooed the young lady who is now Miss Cusick, he told her that he was getting $30 a week, and that he had $2,000 in the bank. After the wedding, the bride learned that he was only a property boy in the New York office of a syndicate, getting but $13.50 a week.

She brought suit to have the marriage annulled, but Justice Guy, of the Supreme Court, in handing down a decision, Saturday, declared: "In the state of mental exaltation accompanying courtship, statements made as to mental, moral or financial qualifications of those concerned are not to be too closely scrutinized. Well, we should say not. If they were, what would become of Cupid?"

A FINE BEGINNING.

Unintentional Herald.

The Herald takes pleasure this morning in publishing a report of the work done by the Playground Association this year. To be sure the playgrounds came rather late in the season, but not too late to demonstrate their practical worth. Since their dedication to the cause those juvenile health spots have been splendidly patronized. They have well served their purpose of keeping hundreds of children off the streets and out of the way of automobiles, which they really crave and which we do not realize because we are children no longer. All in all, the movement has had a gratifying beginning.

LESS IDLE EQUIPMENT

Car Surplus August 15 Less Than Two Weeks Earlier.

In its statement of car surpluses and shortages as of August 15, the American Railway Association says that the total surplus of cars on that date was 99,253, compared with 69,719 on August 1 and 55,627 on August 15, 1912. As compared with the preceding period there is a decrease in the total surplus of 163 cars, made up as follows: An increase of 3,933 in box, 163 in flat and 22 in miscellaneous. The total shortages on August 15 were 1,897, compared with 1,924 on August 1 and 14,722 on August 1, 1912. As compared with the same date last year there is an increase in the total surplus of 10,030 cars, of which 5,157 is in box, 569 in flat, 3,118 in miscellaneous and a decrease of 1,355 in coal. COAL TRAFFIC BOOMING

New York Central Handling Big Tonnage in Clearfield and Cambria.

Freight traffic on the New York Central's lines through northern Cambria and Clearfield counties is increasing rapidly and some big improvements are being contemplated by the officials of the road. With coal business booming every available car is in service and extra trainmen are hired at intervals. The Cherry Tree Iron Company in Indiana county also contributes considerably to the traffic every week. While the completion of the Pennsylvania branch line into Clearfield and vicinity will not be an early as had at first been expected, it will not be a long while until the line is ready for service. A number of unforeseen obstacles had to be overcome and the progress made by the trunk line was little short of remarkable, everything taken into consideration. The coal companies operating along the Clearfield-Windber branch are storing train loads of coal along the tracks to be shipped as soon as the branch is completed. There is going to be some freight rush when the line is finished.

IMPORTED HUSBANDS.

By GEORGE FITCH.

Author of "At Good Old Swash."

Imported husbands have been all the rage, in those American circles which are able to afford them, for some years.

An imported husband is the most stylish thing that can be roped in with a marriage license. He costs all the way from a million dollars up, and usually doesn't last long at that. If a really dippy imported husband wears for five years he is doing very well indeed, and the friends of the purchaser remark in complimentary terms upon his powers of endurance.

Imported husbands usually come as incumbrances on titles. It is impossible to get a title in this country without a husband attached which makes it very awkward for those fortunate young ladies who have everything else but a title. If titles without husbands were put on the market in this country they would have an enormous sale and the estate country which went into the business would be able to take a large slice off of its national debt.

Imported husbands come over free of duty and return the same way. In fact, duty and titled husbands are usually strangers and continue so until the divorce court gets in its work.

Imported husbands would not be so bad if they could be kept in this country where the fathers-in-law could occasionally get at them with a club. Unfortunately, after an American girl has imported a husband, she has to go back to Europe with him. The worst thing about imported husbands in this country is exported wives.

Europe is pretty well sprinkled with American wives who accompanied their purchases back to the old country and have never been able to save a cent. An imported husband costs more to run than an imported automobile. But this is because, as a rule, he is about twice as fast as anything else on earth.

Imported husbands wouldn't be so bad if they came with the usual accessories considered necessary in this country for a first-class, permanent husband. When an imported husband is accompanied by morals, intelligence and ability, he makes as fine a husband as the domestic brand. There should be an import duty of 1,000,000 per cent on all others.

"Where fathers-in-law could occasionally get at them."

ORDERS TO R. F. D. PATRONS

Carriers Are Not to Pick Up Loose Change in Boxes.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—Picking up loose money has grown to be such a hardship on the overworked rural free delivery carrier that the Postoffice Department today warned reckless citizens against leaving loose change lying around. Hereafter coins must be tied in bundles or inclosed in envelopes whenever the patron of a rural route wants stamps from a carrier and leaves the amount in the box.

The attention of postmasters at rural delivery offices and of rural carriers is again directed to the fact that rural carriers are not required to collect loose coins from rural mail boxes. Patrons should inclose coins in an envelope, wrap them securely in paper or deposit them in a coin holding receptacle so that they can be easily and quickly taken from boxes.

JESSIE WILSON INJURED

Falls Unconscious from Horse While Riding With Uncle.

WHITE RIVER JUNCTION, Va., Aug. 28.—As Dr. Charles W. Worthen of White River Junction was on his way to visit a patient at Plainfield, N. H., late yesterday afternoon he came upon a young woman lying unconscious by the road. She proved to be Miss Jessie Wilson, daughter of President Wilson, who, while riding with her father, Francis H. Sayre, had been thrown from her horse. Mr. Sayre had been riding a little ahead and had seen nothing of the accident until the riderless horse dashed past him. Doctor Worthen applied remedies and after about half an hour Miss Wilson regained consciousness.

NO SHAME IN SAYING

Not to Blame for Automobile Mishap, He Declares.

S. S. Snader gives a different version of the automobile accident near Star Junction Monday evening in which from Sixes of the Coler's was injured, from that told by those in the wrecked car. Mr. Snader states that Carl Schmitz, driving the forward car, turned out when he signalled and the pursuing was made without the cars touching. "It was the right wheel of the Schmitz car that gave way. I passed on the left," Snader explains. "He could have been imprudent, under the circumstances, for me to have put the other car out of commission in the manner its occupants say."

BAND BOYS DO WELL

Tuesday Night's Concert One of the Best Yet Heard.

The Connellsville Military Band gave a splendid concert at the bandstand Tuesday evening. It was the first chance many persons had been given to see the boys in their new white uniforms. Leader John Gagne is responsible for the clever program and unique effects introduced during the evening.

Miss Lillian Laflay appeared as the soloist and is apparently at her best when singing in the open air. The evening's program lasted nearly two hours and was heard by one of the largest crowds of the season.

LAST COAL TAKEN UP IN REITZ SOMERSET FIELD

John Lochrie in Purchasing Tract Near Windber Believed to Represent Herward-White Company.

The Herward-White Coal Mining Company is believed to have added to its holdings the last piece of coal land in the Reitz field, Somerset county. At least, this is the view taken by farmers and others interested, of the deal whereby John Lochrie of Windber, has purchased the surface and mineral rights of a 24-acre farm owned by George H. Manzus, the option on which was held by M. J. Reiman of Johnstown. Coal underlies 140 of the 17 acres and at the purchase price of $20,000 was given out, the fuel would seem to be worth $214 an acre. Mr. Lochrie has not indicated that he represents Herward-White in the negotiations, but his recent purchases of coal elsewhere in the Windber district together with the fact that he would scarcely open up a plan there to mine the coal out of 110 acres, leads many to the impression noted.

The George Manzus farm is the furthest up the Dark Shade valley and represents the last piece of coal remaining unsold in that vicinity. The farm lies near the steel bridge over Dark Shade creek and not far away is where Parrish, who tried to build a road across the mountains 20 years ago, the South Penn, made a start of laying tracks. The land adjoins that of Herward-White and also the Consolidation holdings, but Herward-White is more likely to utilize the purchase.

TURBAN AND MANTLE IN SHADES OF TAN AND BROWN

A smart wrap is shown in today's drawing which, being simple and on good lines, may be used to serve for many purposes. A soft pretty colored silk was used for this—a shade which also makes the mantle practical for wear with many different colors—and banded with embroidery in shades of brown. Soft cream net ruffles filled the neck and the mantle was caught together beneath the arm and at the front by brown velvet run through silk rings. A turban wrapped with brown moiré and trimmed at the front with a single white sashette was worn with this.

Mr. Atank Coal Tax.
The probability that the constitutionality of the recent act placing a tax of 2 1/2% on the value of anthracite coal at the mines will be attacked, is indicated by the action of some of the companies in negotiating this tax and keeping a complete record of the persons from whom it is received, so that if the act is declared unconstitutional there will be little trouble in making the proper refund.

IN GREAT DEMAND

Elkhorn Pad Has Good Market in Gas-Producing Districts.

There is a large and steadily increasing demand for Elkhorn pads, particularly by gas-producing plants. It is also used in large quantities in by-products and color paints, having demonstrated its superiority in the manufacture of non-solvent cokes. The president of one western company using large quantities of by-product coal, states that within three years his plants alone will consume three and a half million tons of this grade of coal per annum.

There is a great and steadily increasing demand for malleable iron plants which require a long, hot flame, perfectly free from sulphur. The expenditure of the railroads to reach this field and the greatly increased production are indicative of the market ability and rapidly increasing demand.

The Kind You Have Always Bought.

THIS is the caution applied to the public announcement of Castoria that has been manufactured under the supervision of Cass. H. Fletcher for over 80 years—the genuine Castoria. We respectfully call the attention of fathers and mothers when purchasing Castoria to see that the wrapper bears his signature in black. When the wrapper is removed the same signature appears on both sides of the bottle in red. Parents who have used Castoria for their little ones in the past years need no warning against counterfeits and imitations, but our present duty is to call the attention of the younger generation to the great danger of introducing into their families spurious medicines.

It is to be regretted that there are people who are now engaged in the serious business of putting up and selling all sorts of substitutes, or what should more properly be termed counterfeits, for medicinal preparations not only for adults, but worse yet, for children's medicines. It therefore devolves on the mother to scrutinize closely what she gives her child. Adults can do that for themselves, but the child has to rely on the mother's watchfulness.

Genuine Castoria always bears the signature of Cass H. Fletcher.

HOLTON OF THE NAVY

A STORY OF THE FREEDOM OF CUBA

Then, filled with the heaviness of the storm, he spread his blanket upon a bed of boughs, and lulled by the rustling of the leaves, he closed his eyes and was soon asleep. He awoke suddenly, ordinarily he was a sound sleeper, and he knew that his awakening was due to some outward cause.

He lay for a moment wondering, and then the sound of low voices gave him the cause of his rousing. A glance toward General Garcia's quarters revealed to him the figure of that soldier, gazing thoughtfully into a small fire. A second glance showed that the old soldier was conversing with an officer whom he had not noticed before.

Holton wound himself snugly in his blanket and was about to fall asleep when a sentence arrested his mind and brought him wide awake.

"I do not ask you, general, what your convictions are as to the United States. I tell you merely what circumstances may arise and ask you what you would do in that event."

Garcia shook his head slowly. "I decline to discuss probabilities, or rather impossibilities," he answered. "The United States has acted nobly, and will continue to act."

"Nevertheless," persisted the inquisitor, "I ask you what you would do. Come, come," Holton recognized by his manner a personage of some authority in the Cuban cause—it would be so easy for you to say that until Cuba is absolutely free no drop of blood in your body is your own."

"It would be easy to say that," was the sad response. "But I have shed my blood. I am old. I have struggled and suffered for my country. In the intervention of the United States I see the answer to all my struggles and to all my prayers. I am like a man who has come to the end of a long journey. I see the brightness ahead, the land is eased from the back. God's hand is now at work in this island. And as his hand moves so will I abide. He has sent the Americans here and he will send them away in good season after their work is done. If not, then so be it."

For a moment there was silence. Then Garcia spoke again.

"You have nothing to fear. It is my thought that unless our American friends make a speedy ending of this campaign they will be routed by disease, and if they do not by they will die, surely and certainly. And thus even if I agreed with you in your contention, I should still advocate leaving the matter to God."

"Time will tell. And now you must sleep, general. Who was that American?" he asked, "who remains with you?"

"An Englishman, a newspaper writer," was the reply.

"He is not English; he is American." "Admiral Sampson vouches for him. But at any rate, suppose he is an American? He might be that and still be a writer for the English press."

General Garcia arose decisively.

"As you suggest," he said, "I must sleep. There is yet much to be done. There is much yet before us all," grumbled the officer. "Good night, general."

As Garcia turned to his tent the man walked to the fire, he leaned down, seized an ember and lighted a cigarette. The flames shone full upon his face.

With a half gasp Holton arose in his blanket, and then, as the fellow straightened up, he sank back upon the boughs. But his eyes never left the man's face.

At length, with quick motion, the Cuban turned toward Holton, who had just time to close his eyes. Thus he lay tense, listening for the sounds that would have caused him to spring to his feet—the sounds of the man's footsteps approaching him.

But the sounds did not come. As Holton at length opened his eyes he saw the man writing by the light of the fire upon a small pad lying on his knee.

"You are indeed a good writer, my friend," muttered Holton to himself, and rising from his blanket he walked solemnly toward the fellow he had first seen in the dining-room at the New Willard.

So deeply was the man engrossed in his writing that Holton's movement was unnoticed by him. And for this Holton thanked him sincerely before he had gone two steps.

He acted upon impulse in rising from his blanket, and without any definite intention save that of accosting the man. But now the utility of doing this in the camp, without any well-informed plans for dealing with him appeared to him forcibly. He stopped suddenly in his tracks and then stole back to his bed of boughs.

Holton's mind was in some quandary as to what to do. Unquestionably this man held a high place in the esteem of Garcia, who just as certainly had no idea that he was a Spanish spy.

As to the conversation, Holton believed he had the key to that; the spy was engaged in the process of poisoning the minds of Cuban leaders against the Americans, a plot which, if carried forward successfully and rapidly, might seriously affect the present campaign, and at the same time have a decided tendency to give point to certain relations already strained with several powerful foreign nations.

One thing was sure, the moves of this man must be checked, and, sharply. Just how was the question.

Holton lay there deliberating what he ought to do for more than an hour, and still undecided when the spy noticed things for him by slipping his pad in his pocket and walking toward his horse. He stood for a moment there, his head turned toward Garcia's little hut of leaves and grasses, and then mounting he rode off down the trail.

Holton now lost no time in deciding on his course. Obviously it was to the interests of his government that this man be watched, and so waiting for a minute until the bushes had closed behind the spy, he stealthily started in pursuit.

After leaving the lines, Holton quickened his steps, keeping well within the shadow of the bushes until he was within fifty feet of the rider. Presently the bottom of the mountain was reached, and the spy continued on through the mangrove jungle. As he broke through into the open, Holton made a little detour and came out on the trail.

The men, who proved to be three gigantic negroes and a white man, atured in the blue drill uniform of a Spanish officer, with a little cockade in his felt hat, jerked Holton to his feet, and then, without a word, seized him by the shoulders and lifted him aloft.

"Thank you, yes," he delivered a volley of commands in Spanish, speaking so rapidly that Holton could not understand a word. The men replied in kind, and then the officer and the spy stepped into the boat and were rowed offshore.

Fast Motorboats Will Smash World's Records During Buffalo's Perry Centennial Celebration.

COURSE over which the motorboat races to be held Perry centennial week at Buffalo, Sept. 1 to 6, will be run. This course is considered by motorboat devotees as being the fastest in the world. The world's speediest motorboats have been entered for these races, which will be contested daily during the term of the Perry celebration and the smashing of world's records is looked for during the meet. Ten thousand dollars in cash prizes has been set aside for this feature, and the following trophies will also be raced for. Blackton trophy, Thomas trophy, Chamber of Commerce cup and Moffat cup.

And then leaving the negro where he lay, pursued his way into the forest. He had marked his direction before starting upon his flight, his intention being to make the hills over Santiago Bay, ascertain the location of Cervera's fleet, watch for any signs that might give him as to the intentions of the Spanish admiral, and then make for a point where he might signal Sampson's flagship.

He had no thought of getting clear away until he had made a strong effort to perform the mission upon which he had been dispatched.

After waiting all day with interminable halts in the torrid heat, making perhaps ten or twelve miles, he came near sunset to a tall grove of palms. One of these he climbed and at length was able to locate his position in a general way.

It may have been fever working in his blood, although he felt well, but through his mind ran something, not a voice, more an impulse, which kept suggesting to him to turn to the left. Fixally, staggering and stumbling, half asleep, he obeyed the inward injunction, and in this way proceeded until at last he fell into a heap, dead asleep.

When he awoke he was shivering. He realized his weakness but could not understand it, being usually a man of undeviating health, until it occurred to him that he had not eaten anything for nearly twenty-four hours.

But he had nothing with him to eat, and he did not dare discharge his pistol at the birds flying all about for fear of calling attention to his position in the jungle. So he arose, tightened his belt as he had read Indians used to do when pressed by hunger, and worked his way on, still holding to the left.

Continuing thus he stumbled suddenly upon a clearing, which apparently a large number of soldiers had left not many hours before. There were remains of a fire and better still, scattered upon the ground were bits of hardtack, a whole pineapple and an abandoned kettle with some boiled rice remaining in it.

Despite the suggestions of the proximity of the Spaniards, Holton sat down and ate the most satisfactory meal of his life.

Having eaten, he retired a little distance and lay back in the shadows. The sun warmed him, and the stiffness caused by the dumpy of the night left him. If, as he had feared, fever had been in his blood, it had gone now and this inspired him wonderfully.

He was about to descend when the flash of something below caught his eye almost beneath his feet. He looked closely and caught the flash again, followed by another flash then by several more. He was in this jungle meant to be hidden from the enemy, and he was now being discovered by him.

He strained his eyes downward and then caught glimpses of a trail, partially hidden from his view by bushes. On the side of the trail nearest to the eastward the land fell sharply away into a wide valley, the opposite sides of which were bush and tree-covered hills just as on his side.

And now as he looked, the situation dawned clear upon him. For he could see men moving, falling back along the trail, and eventually debouching into bushes on either side.

Holton's heart beat quickly. He remembered what the Spaniards had said of Americans marching from the direction of Siboney, and he knew that right before his eyes the Spaniards were arranging an ambush for them.

But what could he do? Almost any moment a detachment of Spanish soldiers might come upon him. His slightest movement would tend to attract the attention of some of them.

What was happening? Suddenly from the distance there came what sounded to Holton like the clatter of steel on steel. He at once recognized it as the sound of a scabbard makes when it strikes against a spur.

Instantly he looked down at the Spaniard's position, but not a sign of a soldier could he see. The trail was deserted, the surroundings were as quiet as peaceful as the heart of a jungle. It was too quiet, Holton thought.

Suddenly the situation dawned clear—his countrymen were walking into a deadly trap! And he was powerless to help them.

Then, as though a voice had whispered in his ear, he started up. Was he helpless? Yes, if he was considering himself. If fear of consequences to him personally were to be weighed, he was perfectly helpless. But not otherwise. Providence could not have smiled more benignly upon the American than in placing him just where he was—provided he justified the providential processes with the nerve of a hero.

He rolled half on his side, loosened his revolver in its holster, and then drew it out. No more sounds came from the trail, and yet, somehow, there was the impression of movement down there, a subconscious feeling of the approach of men.

Holton, his eyes strained ahead, his ears alert for the slightest sound, started convulsively as a campaign hat appeared for an instant through a rift in the high grasses on the valley side of the trail.

Then, flattening himself rigidly upon the ground, he pointed his pistol in the direction of the Spaniards beneath him, and pulled the trigger. The sharp report of the forty-four tore through the dead stillness with nerve-racking violence. It clattered across the valley in a hundred echoes. And then, as though both nature and man had been shocked into inaction there followed a few seconds of pulseless silence.

Again Holton's pistol rang out. This time, from the direction of the hidden advancing forces there came several short sharp commands. As Holton lay hidden, thankful that the Spaniards had evidently attributed the shots to some operations on their own side, he saw two Cubans steal along the trail and behind them a gigantic young sergeant in the uniform of a Rough Rider.

Close behind him were four men. They were picking their way stealthily. There was no question that Holton's shot had the desired effect.

Then, as he looked, several long, lanceolate lines of flame darted out of the bushes in which the Spaniards lay. The valley resounded with a racketing uproar. He saw the big Rough Rider sergeant stop short with a look of surprise upon his face, saw his jaws set grimly, saw him advance a step, and then heave forward on his face, blocking the trail with his body.

The bushes beneath Holton were now darting sheets of flame and the gases from the smokeless powder drifted upward and into his nostrils.

From the American side he heard a crashing as the main body rushed up into action or deployed into the grass to the eastward of the trail and then suddenly out of the thicket came the roar of the Rough Riders. Thrilled with pride as he noticed that the aim of the Americans was low and that the shooting discipline was excellent.

The firing was incessant and Holton, whose activities with his revolver had brought a volley or two in his direction, now ceased firing and began to work his way into the valley toward the American position. He had not gone far when the advancing lines swept upon him.

"Hello, Bud," cried a tall, warthog-faced sergeant from a New Mexican ranch, "what're you doin' way out here?"

Holton smiled and was about to reply when a red light suddenly flashed before his eyes and he clapped his hand to his forehead, for it seemed as though a red hot brand had suddenly been clamped upon it. Then mercifully came darkness.

And as he lay thus in the tall grass, his eyes closed, blood streaming down his cheeks and coagulating in the hot sun, the Rough Riders met the regulars from across the valley while four companies revolved around the left end of the hidden enemy and then, as the Spaniards later put it, they started to catch us with their hands."

For a mile and a half these men, who had marched into what approximated a deadly surprise, chased the Spaniards, sent them flying hastily from three successive barricades until finally, in utter rout, they abandoned all thought of further interference with the American movement and fell back on the trenches before Santiago.

But Holton did not witness this triumph of Guasimas. Long after the thin blue line had swept on up the valley he lay as he had fallen, vultures flying over him and terrible land crabs rattling about, seeking for that food which death alone makes palatable to them.

CHAPTER IX.

Before San Juan.

Agos seemed to have passed when Holton was aroused by a pleasant vivifying fluid had been forced down his throat. Some very sympathetic hand was touching his head and a genial voice was addressing him.

A Red Light Suddenly Flashed Before His Eyes.

"Come, old man, you're all right. The bullet just clipped your very thick head and glanced off."

Holton opened his eyes and saw a tall, broad shouldered surgeon bending over him.

"How do you feel now?" he asked. "Bully," smiled Holton. "I think I'll get up, if I may."

"Oh, you can get up just as soon as you think you feel sufficiently strong," replied the surgeon. He looked at Holton closely. "You're not out of our outfit, correspondent, aren't you?"

Holton smiled and shook his head. "No, my name is Holton, a lieutenant in the navy."

"The navy? Gad! You must have been spoiling for a landlubbers' scrap, then."

"I came in from behind Santiago," volunteered Holton, "and ran into this fight by accident. I have important information for Admiral Sampson, if you think I can get to the coast."

"You certainly can. I am sending a couple of wounded men down to Siboney now on horseback. I have another pony which you may borrow—remember, borrow," laughed the surgeon. "Be careful to keep that first-aid bandage on your head and by tonight you'll be all right. Not even a headache."

"Thanks," Holton, aided by the surgeon, got upon his feet, away weakly a moment with the other's arm around him, and then, getting his swimming head to rights, he walked slowly toward the trail.

A hospital attendant stood there holding two horses, and one of these the surgeon took and assisted Holton into the saddle.

"You can leave the nag at our camp in Siboney and I'll get him," he said. "By the way, my name is Church."

"Bob Church, of Princeton?" exclaimed Holton, recalling now that he had seen that broad shouldered doctor on many a hard-fought gridiron.

"The same," was the smiling reply. "Well, Bob Church, I owe you one," rejoined Holton. "I used to try to simulate your deeds on the eleven at Annapolis but I don't think I ever succeeded."

"Oh, yes, you did!" exclaimed the surgeon. "Holton—Holton—Tommy Holton—I place you now, think they put something like All America and after your name, a degree they never conferred upon me."

Holton blushed; and then, thanking his benefactor, once more he passed on down the trail, in company with two privates, wounded in the legs.

As Holton wandered down a line of tents, he ran into Aldridge, Buxton and Fisher, all of the flagship New York. He fairly dived himself into their arms, and, overjoyed at seeing them for themselves, not only, but because of the opportunity it gave him of getting the information he had obtained through to Admiral Sampson.

First Attempt to Fly Around England for $25,000 Prize Aroused the Aviation World

LONDON, Aug. 28.—Aviation enthusiasts watched with keen interest the steps in Henry G. Hawker's flight to capture the $25,000 prize for being the first airman to fly around England. The task was not an easy one—in fact, it was one of the most ambitious flights ever mapped out for an aviator. Hawker used a big hydroaeroplane, and when he left Southampton on August 25 for the 1,600 mile air journey around the island he felt that he would accomplish the feat in the allotted time of four days. He was the only one entered in the prize flight. On the first day he covered 456 miles and on the second day 341 so that he was a little over half way round England in two days. This led him to feel confident that he would reach Southampton on time.

DEMAND IS BRISK FOR PROMPT COKE; THE MARKET FIRM

Reports of Shading $2.50 Price Prove to be Groundless.

SEPTEMBER TONNAGE SOUGHT

Inquiries are Coming Earlier Than Those for August or July Deliveries; Several Sales Reported and One Contract Put Through; Pig Iron Dull

From The Weekly Courier.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 27.—The coke market has suddenly grown active again, there being a good movement in prompt furnace coke as well as the appearance of inquiry from several sources for September coke, with some sales already effected. In no case has $2.50 been shaded for standard furnace coke.

The tone of the market was somewhat upset the earlier part of last week by reports that a prominent merchant house had offered furnace coke at various cut prices from $2.49 down to $2.25, without making takers. In a week market such reports might have had a permanently unsettling effect, but investigation showed that if any such prices were named they referred to coke sufficiently below standard quality to make the material unacceptable even at the cuts mentioned, and later in the week actual purchases at the full price showed conclusively that buyers could not shade the figure on desirable coke.

On Friday sales were made at $2.50 aggregating more than 2,000 tons, of standard furnace coke, for delivery through the present week. Early this week additional sales of prompt coke were made, the total movement in the week easily aggregating more than 5,000 tons of prompt coke.

Inquiry has begun to develop for September requirements of furnace coke covered by contracts, and no quotations are being made on this coke below $2.50. It is believed that several sales have already been made for September, and it is positively known that one contract has been put through aggregating about 10,000 tons.

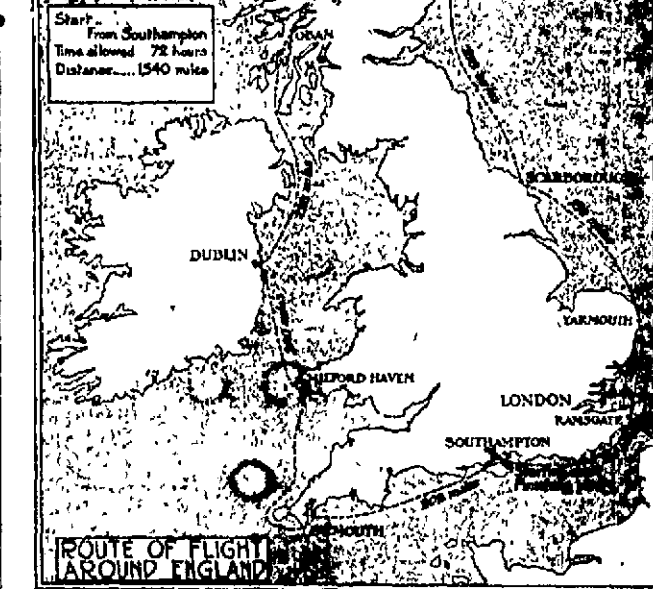

Inquiry and actual selling of coke for September has developed considerably earlier than was the case with August or July coke, which in some quarters is attributed to the coke being in still firmer position. It is pointed out, however, that next Monday being Labor Day, with some extensive celebrations planned in the Connellsville region, some of the consumers are probably inquiring early to avoid the necessity of making their purchases at a time when coke may be temporarily scarce through shortage of labor.

The market continues to be quotable on the following basis, with prices very firmly maintained on standard grades: Prompt furnace $2.50 Contract furnace $2.50 Prompt foundry $2.50 Contract foundry $2.50

The pig iron market continues dull on the whole, but with prices firmly maintained. Of some interest is the purchase last Friday of 10,000 tons of prompt basic pig by the Carnegie Steel Company. The iron was secured from the Midland furnace at the regular market price of $11, valley, or $14.30, Pittsburgh, but coming from Midland the actual price of furnace is $11.30, as Midland has a 60 cent rate to Pittsburgh against regular of 60 cents.

For several weeks past the furnace have been claiming that basic was strong at $14.25, and on the verge of advancing to $14.50, but such successive sales proven to be at $14.10, however iron has sold at higher prices for prompt, evidently due to the scarcity in stocks, while basic stocks are ample. A sale was made last week at $13.75, valley, 25 cents above the regular market of a fortnight ago, and some small lots went at $16. Foundry iron is very dull. We quote Bessemer, $15.75; $16.00; basic, $14; malleable, $14.25; No. 2 foundry, $13; gray iron, $12.50, at Valley furnace, 40 cents higher delivered in Pittsburgh.

Average prices of standard Connellsville coke for prompt shipment have been as follows, according to quotations reported from week to week in these reports:

	Purchase	Foundry
January	2,175	2,175
February	2,175	2,175
March	2,175	2,175
April	2,175	2,175
May	2,175	2,175
June	2,175	2,175
July	2,175	2,175
August	2,175	2,175

STEEL TRADE IS UNSETTLED; AWAIT PRICE SETTLEMENTS

Extensive Buying Not Anticipated Until Basis for Negotiations is Made Firmly Established.

From The Weekly Courier.

NEW YORK, August 27.—The American Metal Market and Daily Iron & Steel Report will say tomorrow.

The steel trade has come to recognize more clearly that the market is in a transition stage, in which prices are being revised on several products, and no important buying movement is to be expected until trading levels have been established.

The eastern plate market is quotable on the basis of 1.55c, Pittsburgh, while the general market of the country is quotable at 1.10c, Pittsburgh, a decline of a dollar a ton from the basis which had prevailed since early in October. Shapes are still quotable at 1.10c, Pittsburgh, though in the east shapes can be had on the basis of 1.40c, Pittsburgh. Bars are very firm at 1.10c, Pittsburgh, and nothing has developed to suggest that this price will break.

Galvanized sheets are openly done at 2.25c, a price formerly regarded as more or less exceptional. Black sheets continue quotable at 2.15c, this being a minimum. Total declines have been $1 a ton in black and $6 a ton in galvanized.

As was to be expected, the first departure from $24.50 for billets and $27.10 for sheet bars made a wide open market for unfinished steel. A few thousand tons have been sold at less than $25 for sheet bars, but the real market is yet to be established by barter, consumers thus far refraining from entering into active negotiations.

The Standard Oil Company has just placed 100,000 boxes of tin plate with the leading interest for fourth quarter delivery, to be used for export purposes. Last year practically all this business was kept at home, while early this year some important orders were allowed to go to South Wales.

The Carnegie Steel Company's purchase of 10,000 tons of basic pig iron from the Midland Interest, on the basis of $11, valley, is merely an incident and does not suggest further the iron purchases by the Steel Corporation.

Steel production and shipments continue at practically the full capacity, but with additional bookings of importance required to maintain the rate for any length of time.

Central Power Company.

James Lochrie, who operates mines in the Seap Level section of Cambria county, observes that purchased power is more economical than that self-generated.

He estimates that the difference in cost is about $300 a month at the two mines.

AUTO TRUCK FOR MINE RESCUE

New Equipment of Bureau of Mines to Be Used for Emergencies.

A large automobile truck soon to be added to the Pittsburgh station of the Government's mine rescue service will serve the same purpose as the railroad mine rescue cars. It will carry a small complement of men, oxygen helmets and rescue apparatus.

While the railroad rescue cars are used for long runs, the motor truck is chiefly designed for use in the territory within 100 miles of Pittsburgh.

In exterior appearance the truck will be similar to the police motor patrol. One of its chief advantages is that it will be able to get under way quickly and reach points not accessible to the railroad cars. J. W. Paul of the Bureau of Mines designed the car and its arrangement.

This new car serves to recall that the first railroad rescue car of the bureau was designed by the Pittsburgh station and tested out there. So successful was it in saving lives that similar cars were placed at stations in all the big coal fields of the country. If this new motor car serves its purpose others will be made and attached to the other stations.
